A Mother's Story of Survival and Courage

In 1994, Immaculée Ilibagiza was a young Tutsi woman living in Rwanda. When the genocide began, she was forced to flee her home with her husband and three children. They hid in a tiny bathroom for three months, living in constant fear of being discovered.

During that time, Immaculée's husband and three children were killed. She was the only survivor.

In her book, How My Family Survived the Genocide in Rwanda, Immaculée shares her story of survival and courage. She tells of the horrors she witnessed, the pain she endured, and the hope she found in the midst of despair.

A Testament to the Power of Hope

Immaculée's story is a testament to the power of hope. Even in the darkest of times, she never gave up hope that she would be reunited with her family. She clung to the belief that there was a better future for her and her children.

Immaculée's story is also a reminder of the importance of forgiveness. She has forgiven those who killed her family, and she has dedicated her life to promoting peace and reconciliation in Rwanda.
