Author Peter Hathaway Capstick is one of the world's most experienced and successful leopard hunters, and in this book he shares his firsthand account of the challenges and rewards of hunting these elusive predators. Capstick's writing is both thrilling and informative, and he provides a unique perspective on the leopard's behavior and habitat.

Hunting The African Leopard is more than just a hunting book; it is also a celebration of the African wilderness and its many inhabitants. Capstick's love for Africa shines through on every page, and he provides a vivid portrait of the continent's beauty and diversity.

Whether you are a hunter, a nature lover, or simply someone who enjoys a good adventure story, Hunting The African Leopard is a book that you will not want to miss.

Excerpt from Hunting The African Leopard

The leopard is the most elusive and challenging of all the big cats to hunt. It is a master of camouflage and ambush, and it can strike with lightning speed. But for those who are willing to put in the time and effort, leopard hunting can be an incredibly rewarding experience.

I have been fortunate enough to hunt leopards in many different parts of Africa, and I have learned a great deal about these amazing creatures. In Hunting The African Leopard, I share my experiences and insights, and I provide practical advice for those who are interested in hunting leopards themselves.

Here is an excerpt from the book:

"The leopard is a creature of the night. It spends the day sleeping in a tree or thicket, and it emerges at dusk to hunt. Leopards are ambush predators, and they typically wait for their prey to come close before they attack. They are incredibly powerful animals, and they can kill even large prey with a single bite to the neck.

Hunting leopards is a challenging but rewarding experience. It requires patience, skill, and a deep understanding of the leopard's behavior. But for those who are willing to put in the effort, leopard hunting can be an unforgettable adventure."
