Sample Chapter: Setting Realistic Retirement Goals

The first step in retirement planning is setting realistic retirement goals. What do you want to do in retirement? How much money will you need to live the lifestyle you want? How long do you expect to live in retirement?

To set realistic retirement goals, you need to consider your current financial situation, your future income needs, and your life expectancy. You should also consider your risk tolerance and investment goals.

Once you have considered all of these factors, you can start to set realistic retirement goals. Be sure to set goals that are specific, measurable, achievable, relevant, and time-bound.

Safety First Retirement Planning is the only book you need to plan for a secure and comfortable retirement. This book will teach you everything you need to know about retirement planning, including how to set realistic retirement goals, create a retirement budget, choose the right investments for your retirement savings, maximize your Social Security benefits, and plan for healthcare costs in retirement.
